

Dottie Pepper is the lead walking reporter for CBS Sports' coverage of the PGA Tour, Masters and PGA Championship. She is a 1987 graduate of Furman University with a B.A. in Health Sciences. After an accomplished junior, college and amateur golf career, she went on to play 17 years on the LPGA Tour, winning 17 times, including 2 major championships and one additional win on the JLPGA Tour. She represented the United States six times in the Solheim Cup matches, compiling a 13-5-2 record. She retired from competitive golf in 2004. She has covered all levels of televised golf, including every major championship, international team events, as well as national amateur championships for ESPN, Golf Channel, NBC and CBS. Dottie served as a member of the PGA of America Board of Directors from 2012-2015 and the NENY PGA Board of Directors from 2009-2015. She was the recipient of the 2016 William D. Richardson Award, presented by the Golf Writers Association of America for her consistently outstanding contributions to golf. She is also 2018 inductee to the New York State Golf Association Hall of Fame.

Photo provided by CBS Sports.

She lives in Saratoga Springs, NY and is a fan of skiing in the Northeast, farmer's markets, gardening, dogs, World War II history and fast cars.